Charlie Horse has very set ideas of just how his pub should be run. No food (apart from crisps and nuts) and very definite ideas about what kind of customers are welcome in his hostelry. Unbeknown to Charlie however, there is something very odd indeed going on in "The Bucket and Shovel", and for just this once, Charlie is going to be the last person to find out. Because very shortly, an inspector is going to call...Please note this is a short story and is quite difficult to categorise - there are slight elements of fantasy (although it has a contemporary setting) as well as a smattering of mystery, and also is intended to have a slight Pratchettesque feeling to it. This short story is also available in the "Paul McCartney's Coat and Other Stories" collection, along with nine other tales, and is available to purchase separately.

A play produced by the University of Florida School of Theater and Dance in their Nadine Macguire Black Box theater. Directed by Dr. David Young, the production ran October 21st - 30th 2012. An Inspector Calls, takes place in a single night at the Birling's country estate. The play centers around a man, calling himself inspector Goole, coming to the estate to interview the family about their involvement with a girl who has just died from drinking disinfectant. The design sought to create an environment that was both regal and imposing. it also attempted to serve both the needs of the director and those of the script. Clear communication of ideas and research with the entire production team was key in making this design a reality.
