Comparative Federalism and Decentralization

Share. "Decentralization" is a widely used term that lacks a precise definition. Generally, decentralization refers to the transfer of specific types of decision-making authority from a central or higher-level entity to subordinate field, regional, and/or local entities. That is, a national government or central government might transfer, constitutionally or legislatively, certain decision-making authority to regional (e.g., provincial) or local (e.g., municipal) governments.
