The development of Modernist architecture in India. September 26, 2011 Sreekanth P S. The concept of "Modernism" in 20th century Indian architectural development remains difficult to grasp, as it was used within numerous stylistic developments, following the spirit of the day. Starting with the efforts made by Europeans in the 1920s, the idea of "modern architecture" as a revolutionary and innovative force started to make cautious headway in India in the early 1930s.

Contemporary Indian art matches the cultural and idealogical diversity of the nation, and thanks to rapid globalization is becoming increasingly visible in the international art world. Subodh Gupta 's often-monumental installations link the realities of life in northern India with the broader forces of urbanization and globalization, while Zarina makes intimate works on paper that engage with the violent partition of India and Pakistan, as well as her own dislocation from home.

INDIAN ARCHITECTURE
Introduction □ The architecture of India includes present day India, Pakistan, Bangladesh and Sri Lanka. □ These countries later on got separated by political boundaries but, still share a common cultural heritage. □ The diversity of Indian culture is represented in its architecture. □ Indian architecture comprises a blend of ancient and varied native traditions, with building types, forms and technologies from west, central Asia, and Europe. 2

history of indian architecture - SlideShare

Today, it would be a mistake to interpret contemporary Indian architecture as a surrender to pure Western modernism. Indian architecture, as it evolved during the 70's and beyond, is the synthesis of external influences and internal explorations and innovations. This spirit could be best summarized in the words of Nehru:
