God Went To Beauty School

God decided to see what it was like to live as his creation, so he went to beauty school but discovered that really, he liked hands best so he decided to open a nail salon. God also orders a couch, gets cable, adopts a stray dog, and does many other "normal" things, but not so normal for the creator of the Universe.

God Went to Beauty School by Cynthia Rylant

God Went to Beauty School. He went there to learn how to give a good perm and ended up just crazy about nails so He opened up His own shop. "Nails by Jim" He called it. He was afraid to call it Nails by God. He was sure people would think He was being disrespectful and using His own name in vain and nobody would tip.

This book of poetry details the things God might do if he lived among people on Earth. The book starts off by saying that God went to beauty school because he loved hands, and that he got a dog and sat in a boat for the first time. He needed a new couch, so bought one from Pottery Barn and went home to make spaghetti.

In a series of free-verse poems, God comes to earth in human form to experience normal life in the world he has created. He gets a dog, a couch, and a cold, makes spaghetti, gets a job, climbs a mountain, and, of course, goes to beauty school. In human form, he reacts as a human; he wants comics and juice when he has a cold, cries at movies, doesn't like to eat alone, enjoys watching TV and playing poker, and even gets into a bar fight.

What would happen at beauty school? Well, according to Cynthia Rylant, God would paint all the nails any color He wanted, then say, "Beautiful," and mean it. He would get a dog, go across the water (in a boat this time), buy a couch from Pottery Barn, take a bath (with his clothes on because he's shy), and even become a girl for a while.
