Adolescence is a pivotal time in a girl's life. The development of educational, physical, psychosocial, familial, political and economic capabilities enable girls to reach their full potential and contribute to the wellbeing of their families and society. However, progress is still significantly constrained by discriminatory gender norms and the related attitudes and practices which restrict girls' horizons, restrain their ambition and, if unfettered, allow exploitation and abuse.

Here are five reasons why empowering adolescent girls matters to all of us. 1. It's her right. Fundamentally, this is a human rights issue. Discrimination has no place in the 21 st century, and every girl has the right to go to school, stay safe from violence, access health services, and fully participate in her community. 2.

Under the Global Partnership for Girls' and Women's Education "Better Life, Better Future", the Joint Programme on Empowering Adolescent Girls and Young Women through Education is a partnership between UNESCO, UN

Women and UNFPA. It applies a holistic, multi-sectoral approach to empower girls and young women through a quality education.

Empowering adolescent girls and young women through education

Empowering Adolescent Girls in Developing Countries explores the detrimental impact of discriminatory gender norms on adolescent girls' lives across very different contexts. Grounded in four years of in-depth research in Ethiopia, Nepal, Uganda and Viet Nam, the book adopts a holistic approach, recognising the inter-related nature of capabilities and the importance of local context.
