This is the story that Climate Code Red tells with conviction. It is a compelling case for recognising, as the UN secretary-general has said, that we face a climate emergency.’ James Hansen , director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Goddard Institute for Space Studies

Climate Code Red: The book

Climate Code Red argues that there is an urgent need for all of us to recognise that we face a sustainability emergency - which requires a clear break from the politics of failure-inducing compromise. Even scientifically moderate goals (such as reducing emissions by 25-40 per cent below 1990 levels by 2020) now require immoderate rates of technical and social change that are only achievable by shifting formally to an emergency footing.
