Christian Morality - About Catholics

The relation of morality to religion has been a subject of keen debate during the past century. In much recent ethical philosophy it is strenuously maintained that right moral action is altogether independent of religion. Such is the teaching alike of the Evolutionary, Positivist, and Idealist schools. And an active propaganda is being carried on with a view to the general substitution of this ...

The Catholic view of sin. Augustine of Hippo (354-430) regarded sin as "...a word, deed or desire contrary to the eternal law." Catholic moral theology divides sin into two parts, primarily on the basis of degree and effect: Mortal ('Deathly') sin - This type of sin is the most serious as it involves loss of sanctifying grace. A person who dies with unremitted mortal sin would be in danger of eternal separation from God in Hell.
