If the charge is negative, then the electric field and force vectors point in opposite directions. A point charge in space causes an electric field. The field is stronger closer to the point and weaker farther away. Electricity is made of subatomic particles called Electrons and so are Electric Fields and Magnetic Fields.

Physics Electricity And Magnetism Study Guide

Electric current is equal to the number of Coulombs of charge which move past a point on a circuit per unit of time. Electric current provides a measure of how fast charge moves between two points on a circuit. The electric current diminishes in value as charge progresses to locations further and further from the + terminal of the battery.

Electric Circuits Review - Physics

Electricity and Magnetism Introduction. Until this point, our study of physics has existed solidly in the realm of the, well, solid: things we could touch, drive, throw, roll, slide, drop, push, or, when all else failed, fire out of cannons. Electricity and magnetism are fundamentally different. Electromagnetic forces exist everywhere and all around us, but are invisible and intangible.
