Abstract. In this chapter we will present a tutorial on the fundamentals of structural equation modeling (SEM). In recent years structural equation modeling (SEM) has grown enormously in popularity. Fundamentally, SEM is a term for a large set of techniques based on the general linear model. The goal of this chapter is to present an introduction to the field of structural equation modeling.

Structural equation modeling includes a diverse set of mathematical models, computer algorithms, and statistical methods that fit networks of constructs to data. SEM includes confirmatory factor analysis, confirmatory composite analysis, path analysis, partial least squares path modeling, and latent growth modeling. The concept should not be confused with the related concept of structural models in econometrics, nor with structural models in economics. Structural equation models are often used to
