The key concerns for the ADA are promoting unions, promoting pro-choice, opposing the Iraqi. Tim Groseclose's Left Turn pushes one main thesis: that news media outlets are overwhelmingly liberal, at least as liberalism is understood in American politics. Here's how he establishes the thesis.

Robert Barro, a Harvard University Economics professor, asserts, "The bottom line from the Groseclose-Milyo study is that the political slant of most of the mainstream media is far to the left of the typical member of Congress. Thus, if the political opinions of viewers, listeners, and readers are similar to those of their elected representatives, the political leanings of most of the media are far to the left of those of most of their customers."

Timothy Groseclose - Wikipedia

According to the poll, 44% of Americans feel that news media are "too liberal" (70% of self-identified conservatives, 35% of self-identified moderates, and 15% of self-identified liberals), 19% believe them to be "too conservative" (12% of self-identified conservatives, 18% of self-identified moderates, and 33% of self-identified liberals), and 34% find it "just about right" (49% of self-identified liberals, 44% of self-identified moderates, and 16% of self-identified conservatives).

Media bias in the United States - Wikipedia

The author presents evidence for its validity by describing how it relates to similar measures. He calculates PQ scores for prominent politicians, organizations, political and liberal regions of the country, and media sources such as newspapers. Comparing the scores of media sources shows them to be far to the left of the U.S. population in ...
