Kirkpatrick and Beyond: A Review of Models of Training ...

This report looks critically at Kirkpatrick and the other models that purport to be significant improvements. It develops a model of the learning process to help underpin any approach to training evaluation, and reviews what we know about evaluation and the factors that affect training success.

Kirkpatrick and Beyond | Institute for Employment Studies ...

Complaints about Kirkpatrick's popular four-step model (1959) of training evaluation are that each level is assumed to be associated with the previous and next levels and that the model is too simple and fails to take account of the intervening variables affecting learning and transfer.

Kirkpatrick and Beyond: A Review of Training Evaluation ...

The Kirkpatrick model of training evaluation has been popular since the 1960s. This report argues that, despite the existence of this model, many UK organisations are questioning the appropriateness of their training evaluation methods. The report critically examines the Kirkpatrick model and compares it with other training evaluation models. A model of the learning process is developed to ...

Training Evaluation: Beyond Kirkpatrick - Training Industry

In this review, we look critically at the Kirkpatrick model and compare it to others. We explore what these models might imply about the process of learning and changing behaviour, and we also review some of the research evidence on training evaluation that throws light on issues associated with evaluating at different levels.
