Abstract: Our desire to abridge decision-making for complex problems related to renewable energy development processes led us to partially envelop the multi-criteria decision-making (MCDM) with classical Delphi and come up with a framework for web-based group decision-making. This paper presents how the Delphi technique is used to elicit sets of relevant qualitative inputs from experts' opinions and shows how MCDM methods are utilised to rank alternate solutions.

International Journal of Information Technology and Decision Making (IJITDM) provides a global forum for exchanging research findings and case studies which bridge the latest information technology and various decision-making techniques. It promotes how information technology improves decision techniques as well as how the development of decision-making tools affects the information technology era.

IJITDM Aims and Scope - World Scientific

The Journal of Multi-Criteria Decision Analysis (JMCD A) was launched in 1992, with an explanatory byline 'Optimization, Learning and Decision Support' added with a restructuring of the editorial board in 2009. From the outset, JMCD A aimed to be the repository of choice for papers covering all aspects of MCDA (Multicriteria decision analysis or aid) and MCDM (multicriteria decision making), while the explicit link to multiobjective optimization was emphasized in the amplified title.
