Across the Fence #533

Old barns have a special place in the hearts of many people.

After I sent the old barn story to the newspapers last week, I received an e-mail from Rae Ann Holub, Editor of the Linn News-Letter in Central City, Iowa, where Across the Fence runs each week. She included before and after photos of the restoration of her father's round barn.

Across The Fence:
Old Barns Without Corners

Set in New York in the early 1900s, Melissa Across the Fence begins with an enchanting description of the grand house next door. "In the rear, a lawn ran right back to the fence, broken only by a narrow gravel walk and with a stone fountain directly in the middle.
