Quiz & Worksheet - Monopolistic Competition in Economics ...

There are four types of competition in a free market system: perfect competition, monopolistic competition, oligopoly, and monopoly. Under monopolistic competition, many sellers offer differentiated products—products that differ slightly but serve similar purposes. By making consumers aware of product differences, sellers exert some control over price. In an oligopoly, a few sellers supply a sizable portion of products in the market. They exert some control over price, but because their ...

Monopolistic competition refers to a market where many firms sell differentiated products.
Differentiated products can arise from characteristics of the good or service,
location from which the product is sold, intangible aspects of the product, and perceptions of the product. The perceived demand curve for a monopolistically competitive firm is downward-sloping, which shows that it is a price maker and chooses a combination of price and quantity.
