With exams nearly over and schemes of work coming to an end, there may be time to do something slightly different in maths lessons. Perhaps an investigation to apply the knowledge and skills students have acquired over the year, a project to allow them to work creatively as a team to produce something special, or an enrichment activity to show pupils just how interesting maths can be.

Art teacher Melinda Nguyen spent mornings at her former school, Nesbit Elementary in Tucker, Georgia, assisting in a math extension program called Mighty Minds. As part of the program, she worked with a second-grade teacher to explain “make 10” addition, but the students weren’t grasping the concept. So Nguyen decided to try something different. She guided the students in creating mosaics, which required an understanding of make 10 addition.
