The alchemist knew the legend of Narcissus, a youth who knelt daily beside a lake to contemplate his own beauty. He was so fascinated by himself that, one morning, he fell into the lake and drowned. At the spot where he fell, a flower was born, which was called the narcissus. But this was not how the author of the book ended the story.

I'd recommend The Alchemist to everyone, especially the 'solero' and the 'peaches and cream' cocktail. Although they're not as extravagant as the others, and don't have half a tree on them like the kale cocktails do, they're sooo good. They roll in at about £8 each, so you couldn't spend all night at this bar, unless you'd just had your student loan through, but as a 1 off treat this bar is ...
