The Vagina Monologues debuted at the Institute in 2002, making this the 19th annual production. MIT is proud to be one of a thousand participating colleges and universities staging benefit shows through the V-Day worldwide movement to end violence against women.

The MIT Vagina Monologues

In February of 2002, I was involved in MIT's production of The Vagina Monologues. In fact, I had one of the more infamous monologues, "My Angry Vagina." Three nights in a row I stood in front of a crowd of 300+ and talked about "dry wads of fucking cotton" (tampons), "cold duck-lips," and what my vagina wanted.

MIT's The Vagina Monologues

The Vagina Monologues brings together a diverse group of people from the MIT community, with vastly different backgrounds and interests, united under the common goal to stop violence against women. All proceeds from the MIT production go to local anti-violence organizations helping them to continue and expand their core work.

The Vagina Monologues @ MIT :: The Show

WOMAN 1 Let's just start with the word "vagina.". It sounds like an infection at best, maybe a medical instrument: "Hurry nurse, bring me the vagina." "Vagina." "Vagina.". Doesn't matter how many times you say it, it never sounds like a word you want to say. It's a totally ridiculous, completely unsexy word.

The Vagina Monologues - MIT

About. Events. The Vagina Monologues. Stop Our Silence (SOS) organizes and runs The Vagina Monologues along with other activism and performance-oriented activities throughout the year. The Vagina Monologues is a yearly production that centers the stories of real women, as compiled by Eve Ensler, and is put on by an all female and non-binary cast. In order to better include the voices of all women, we invite anyone who wants to write and perform their own piece as a part of the show.

The Vagina Monologues @ MIT :: People

In The Vagina Monologues, depictions of sexual violence are told through mostly non-white and non-US centered stories, as Srimati Basu states, "While a few of these forms of violence, such as sexual assault and denigration of genitalia, are depicted in U.S. locations, violence is the primary register through which 'the global' is evoked, the main lens for looking outside the United States. These global locations serve to signify the terror that is used to hold the laughter in balance, to ...

“The Vagina Monologues” is a low cost production, designed to be performed by volunteers around the world. It aims to end the silence about the central facts of women’s lives and thus protect them from some of the violence done to them.

THEATRE REVIEW - The Tech

The Vagina Monologues and other works have been performed in over 200 countries by local V-Day activists, raising over $100 million dollars for grassroots anti-violence groups, rape crisis centers, domestic violence shelters, and safe houses in places like Kenya and Afghanistan. V-Day supports and launched the City of Joy, a revolutionary center for women survivors of gender violence in the Democratic Republic of Congo, which has graduated over 1300 women leaders.

V-Spot | V-Day MIT (TVM) 2020

The Vagina Monologues attempt to bring into the open a set of experiences that are central to the lives of half, or most, of the population but which are considered socially unacceptable. The Vagina Monologues are about the power of discourse, the power of words to change the world. But why do we need to think about vaginas?

"Monologues" A Celebration - The Tech

The Vagina Monologues are about so much more than talking about vaginas in front of a large audience. For an audience member, they are about addressing things that often are swept under a rug: if we don't talk about them, maybe we don't have to think about them.
