It is helpful to think of teaching styles according to the three Ds: Directing, Discussing, and Delegating. The directing style promotes learning through listening and following directions. With this style, the teacher tells the students what to do, how to do it, and when it needs to be done.

Three Teaching Styles

A learning style is not in itself an ability but rather a preferred way of using one's abilities (Sternberg 1994). Individuals have different learning styles, that is, they differ in their 'natural, habitual, and preferred way (s) of absorbing, processing, and retaining new information and skills' (Reid 1995: viii).
