The chart below is a summary of the main factors that influence the reaction rate. There is ...

Factors That Affect the Chemical Reaction Rate

Raising the reaction temperature by 10 °C can double or triple the reaction rate. This is due to an increase in the number of particles that have the minimum energy required. The reaction rate decreases with a decrease in temperature. Catalysts can lower the activation energy and increase the reaction rate without being consumed in the reaction.

Factors that Affect Reaction Rate | Introduction to Chemistry

We can identify five factors that affect the rates of chemical reactions: the chemical nature of the reacting substances, the state of subdivision (one large lump versus many small particles) of the reactants, the temperature of the reactants, the concentration of the reactants, and the presence of a catalyst.

Pressure factor. Pressure increases the concentration of gases which in turn results in the increase of the rate of reaction. The reaction rate increases in the direction of less gaseous molecules and decreases in the reverse direction.

Rate of Reaction - Definition and Factors Affecting ...

When there is an increase in temperature the particles of the reactants will move quickly, which will cause the particles to collide with one another with more energy and more often. Therefore, the higher the temperature, the larger the rate of reaction. When there is a decrease in temperature the rate of reaction decreases.

Lab 6-2: Factors Affecting Reaction Rate - Suzan Ozgur's ...

Based on the Kinetic Molecular Theory, the central idea of the collision model is that molecules must collide to react. Therefore, the greater number the number of collisions per second, the greater the reaction rate. The collision energy depends directly on the kinetic energy of colliding particles, and temperature is a measure of the average kinetic energy of the particles in a substance.
