Accountability Of Policing Routledge
Frontiers

Accountability of Policing provides a contemporary and wide-ranging examination of the accountability and governance of 'police' and 'policing'. Debates about 'who guards the guards' are among the oldest and most protracted in the history of democracy, but over the last decade we have witnessed important changes in how policing and security agencies are governed, regulated and held to account.

In this regard, accountability for policing by PSNI in terms of what it 'does', what it delivers and what it is responsible for on the ground remains far from clear-cut (Topping & Byrne, 2012a). Against this backdrop, this chapter examines the key junctures of police accountability within a Northern Ireland context.
