Adult Learning In The Social

Social learning theory, as the name implies, capitalizes on our social interactions, emphasising the importance of observing and modeling behaviors, attitudes, and emotional reactions of others. Teachers who work collaboratively, observe, and model their learning will develop a sense of self-efficacy, which is the foundation for teacher growth and development.

Adult education, distinct from child education, is a practice in which adults engage in systematic and sustained self-educating activities in order to gain new forms of knowledge, skills, attitudes, or values. It can mean any form of learning adults engage in beyond traditional schooling, encompassing basic literacy to personal fulfillment as a lifelong learner. In particular, adult education reflects a specific philosophy about learning and teaching based on the assumption that adults can and w
