Computational Collective Intelligence - Springer

Collective intelligence (CI) is shared or group intelligence that emerges from the collaboration, collective efforts, and competition of many individuals and appears in consensus decision making. The term appears in sociobiology, political science and in context of mass peer review and crowdsourcing applications. It may involve consensus, social capital and formalisms such as voting systems ...

Collective intelligence - Wikipedia

Computational Collective Intelligence (CCI) strives to cover new methodological, theoretical, and practical aspects of computational collective intelligence understood as the form of intelligence that emerges from the collaboration and competition of many individuals (artificial and/or natural). The goal of this technical committee is to provide a forum for exchanging scientific research and technological achievements accomplished by the international community.
