The little watercress girl. Taken from London Labour and the London Poor: Henry Mayhew (1851), Vol I, pp. 157-8. The little watercress girl who gave me the following statement, although only eight years of age, had entirely lost all childish ways, and was, indeed, in thoughts and manner, a woman. There was something cruelly pathetic in hearing this infant, so young that her features had scarcely formed themselves, talking of the bitterest struggles of life, with the calm ...
