Adding sugar to the water increases the density of the water, so the more sugar in the solution, the greater the density. The blue sugar solution has the most sugar so it is the densest as it has the highest number of sugar particles per 100ml of water. The densest solution stays at the bottom, with the least dense on top.

Inverted sugar syrup (also called invert syrup, or invert sugar) is an edible mixture of two simple sugars—glucose and fructose—that is made by heating sucrose (table sugar) with water. It is thought to be sweeter than table sugar, and foods that contain it retain moisture better and crystallize less easily. Bakers, who call it invert syrup, may use it more than other sweeteners.
